This sounds similar to the problem I am experiencing. It changes the setting for eve and then closes eve. It will then open and close the eve client several time but never accomplish anything. Eventually I get a First Run failed message. I am emailing you the log now.

Well the the log file is to big to email. Gmail and my other email provider will only let me send files 25mb or smaller. The log is 35mb. What should I do?

I have received your log, thanks.

The problem (or not a problem) is that bot works with latest eve version only. If new eve build is available you must update it manually first. The reason why I don't want to add eve auto-updater to the bot is that bot may be broken after any eve update and start to do stupid things. This way you may get petitioned. Better to update eve manually and control how the bot works after update.

Very odd. After it failed, I ran it again, after writing the below complaint and it ran through the entire setup. Got my sn and license and all seems good to go. Maybe it needed to go to failure so that it would run properly. Not sure what caused the problem, but now that it works, I'm happy.

Ran once, yesterday, got the popup at the end, but system locked up, and lost everything. No log file found. Uninstalled and reinstalled. Each attempt got through the settings portion of the first run wizard, quit EVE and then nothing. Finally found this thread.

I tried again, left it alone for over an hour and came back to "First Run Failed" message window. It never attempted, when I was watching, to log into the character. It just sat there. There are no logs. Well, it did make one; and that file is a 0kb text file with nothing in it.

What next?

Create folder C:\Data

Start bot, open menu->tools

Check use custom data folder checkbox, use button from the right to select C:\Data

Restart bot.

If your log is empty, you probably have I/O error (Application data folder locked by another application) and need to move data folder outside of system folder as suggested above or start bot as administrator. Let me know if you will have problems again.

Also please check if you have log recording (including screens) enabled in debugger settings.
