3.0.1 - Cant seem to get it going
Posted by winny - 2010/10/20 14:43

Hello all, Im having some real problems trying to get version 3.0.1 to run correctly...

My machine is set up correctly as per the recommendations for the product so I have no problems there...

As it stands I;ve not even managed to do a 1st run successfully as it crashes out. I left it for a bit and when I returned to my machine, I had about 20 copies of Eve had been launched, although no attempt by the Miner to log in...

Anyone got any advice as its driving me potty......

also - i have found a few things that has helped me in the past for example - clear cash in both eve-client and explorer / run disk cleanup and defrag C drive.

reinstall the program but first uninstall the old from within control panel add and remove programs - delete the temp license and copy paste your licenses to the correct folder / then rerun first run with the wizzard checked.

I think you have to rerun the wizzard for each client ie license used Check that you have removed any widgets or popup windows from your desktop. Set windows theme to classic. If you use 1024*768 resolution please check that taskbar relocated vertically or autohidden (connect button must be visible).

Dont feel bad; i'm still dead in the water also. I'm just waiting for the next update and hoping it works. The ccp is coming up with a 5th patch so there will be one soon.

OK- Managed to get it going a bit further now but Ive still not managed a first run. I got a "First Run Failed" dialogue box when I came back to the computer after setting it going.

My machine is running Windows 7 X64 Ultimate if its of interest..

Where abouts are the log files stored so I can take a look at them.

Cheers

CheersWhen you start EP check that in shared settings in debugger expanded panel you see all 3 checkboxes checked. Check what ore selected to mine. Restart EP. Open eve and check that you dont have some optional patch available for installation, install it if so. Switch windows theme to windows classic. Set language of your OS to be english by default. Remove gadgets / widgets from your desktop, all of them. Click first run. You will see "Logger", and if you click control + p (program pause) you can switch to logger and open log with append/open button. Here you can open log's folder also. Send log to me.

These are strange errors Slav - I cannot replicate any of them - when I upgraded to 3.0.1 my EVE client opens in 1024 x 768 window, station hangars at bottom where they are supposed to be, no crash out or multiple EVE windows open - running 2 client (multi) on 1 instance of VM WARE, Win XP on the client (not in classic mode) and regular 1st run works perfect (except for the few tweaks I usually do)

Only issue I found was when you setup clients for the first time on a new install of EP you have to input all the settings then close EP to commit them, then restart EP and do 1st run. If you just input settings then hit 1st run it does not copy or use any of the settings inputed (Asteroids, Ships empty on overview) - I didn't test it further to see if it reconised drones present, system list etc.

It would seem 1st run needs to update settings prior to initiating - 1 little line of code lol :P

That is right. In 3.0.1 version need to be restarted every time when you change settings to update them. That is because real data set constructed from function data and shared data on program start. Then if you change or function data or shared data, reconstruction of data set with new data doesnt occur. Fixed in 3.0.2 (under tests).
