Unable to log back in on my clients after patch... Not recognizing the launcher...

It says the eve launcher is not ready to start game even though it is open and on character select.

Just a quick tip: I manually lunch the game and close launcher. After that the bot runs smoothly for me.

Have tried doing this, but it just shuts eve down completely. I know bot is being updated so I just wait i guess.

Tried this, but still doesn't work. I know the bot is being updated so I will have to wait patiently. Thank you though for the tip!

First bot version is ready. Dont run unattended yet and report any problems. Only first run was tested in this version

Seems that some of the windows, specifically the undock window and the chat windows are now slightly transparent. Seems the bot restarts after that and that's a continuous cycle.

We have a rule I did not mention in patch notes. If bot change version in first or second number (10.2.x->10.4.x) you should redo first run. If version changed in 3rd number first run is not required (10.2.6->10.2.7). Now redo first run and report if any of problems appear after first run or if first fun fails.

Seem to have an issue now on the first run where the bot will show an in game error saying "the item is no longer in your reach"

It won't complete first run because of it and loops back to the beginning. Any ideas?

My first run is stopping and restarting as it's trying to set up market. Say something is covering the market page. Haven't changed any configuration settings since it was running prior to the green launcher update.

I am having the same problem posted above regarding the transparent windows on first run failure, but it can't find the overview. The overview appears somewhat transparent now.

I found solution to the transparent windows for now. You can right click the window borders and select "disable light backgrounds." This makes the windows opaque again.

Did you find a solution to this? I am getting this error now too for the can't find market window with something hovering over it...

I'll try to send some logs up.

If not seems to get stuck (mouse going from centre to screen corner with nothing happening) pause the bot (ctrl-p) right click on every menu window visible and select "disable light background" then unpause bot (ctrl-p)

This was done after bot failed first run once... I paused straight after fail before it started again. This allowed me to run the bot as normal.

If you redo first run with 10.4.0 version bot should disable transparency of windows automatically. In case of a problem with market pause bot when market is opened, drag it to the left or right and unpause bot. I am making corrections now.

Bot will not work in citadels while CCP fix broken hotkeys to open item hangar and ship hangar. NPC stations may be used although. DO first run in NPCstation. Also if you have problem try to tick in shared settings->error corrections->disable exterior view.
