

Abyss T3 Gila gets stuck stopping

Posted by Darkmercenary - 2021/11/26 21:35

Good evening,

While running Abyssal T3 missions in my Gila, I decided to enable the module that allows the bot to loot the sub-nodes, this up'ed profitability. However, occasionally, after all the enemy ships are destroyed, the bot will get stuck, stopping the ship. It appears the bot will continuously stop the ship and won't partake in any other commands, luckily I caught the error and was able to break the loop by targeting the node myself and manually destroying it. Once I did this, the bot picked up operating as usual.

The exact part the bot is getting stuck in the looting stage while nodes are present and not destroyed. I tried disabling speed control to see if the problem would be solved; however, this did not help.

Again, I am running T3 exotics; I can run them consistently while looting only the origin node; however, I run into this issue when I activate the sub-node looting. I also have attached my fit below. Thank you.

I don't recommend to loot subnodes as you may get stuck in asteroids and bot cannot exit of approach loop. I added this function before I figured out it is not so safe and may be used with cheap ships only when you don't care a lot about next refit.

According to this:

T3 might earn 80 million an hour?

For a 2 billion ISK ship that wouldn't be much. It'd take 25 hours to pay for the ship.

I'd have thought that with such a pimp Gila you could be doing the T5 at least?
