Good day Slav.

You suggested that we reduce the number of orders and ISK/order value during tests after the market changes.

Can you please give an indication of maybe how much less of each we should use given the amount of ISK you have, standings, etc?

I have 2 Beta characters with 14B Wallet Value / 34B Total value and 10B Wallet Value / 14B Total Value respectively. I set both to only use 50 orders and 100 mil ISK/order and there is hardly any total value growth in both of them. The first character is actually making a bit of a lost - not too much though. Needless to say that I have a steep increase in Wallet value at the moment because of a lot of stuff that was sold.

Have you got any suggestions that may help us to make more calculated changes?

Kind regards.

As soon as nobody reported about problems with trader since update you can use any value now. Maximize number of orders. This way you will have less competition for most of orders. About profit, need to collect statistics in long run. I expect that market need to stabilize after change, margin for most of items should increase. This is already happening for PLEXs, but PLEXs have high trade volume and react to the market conditions faster.

Good day.

I am using "jEveAssets" to track my bot's activities.

In the last week the bot made me 2.3 bil. I gave it 300 Max orders to use. My order installation interval is 80 minutes and in total I have 3 "cycles" a day of 80 min. Courier and 160 min. Trading.

I only have 35 bil. to trade with though and not 100.
